Dear Valued Customer,

As announced last week, Nuplex Industries and Allnex have now been brought together to form the leading industrial coating resins company globally. The new company will be known as Allnex.

What does this mean from the transactional perspective?

At the transactional level, there is no immediate change. The new company name is purely reflecting the changeover of ownership and not the change in our legal entity.

Over the coming weeks, as part of our rebranding program, you may start seeing and hearing the use of the new company name in phone conversation and email communication. However, the registration of our new legal trading names can take some time and for this reason we ask that you continue to transact with us by using the current Nuplex trading names applicable in your region.

For this reason, we ask that you do not start using the Allnex name until advised to do so.

We do realize that this could be confusing to you and we hope to resolve this as soon as possible. Please be assured that our legal teams are working on a name change plan and we will provide you with the new trading names as soon as these become available.

In the meantime, please continue to address any questions and day-to-day business transactions to your current contacts.

Thank you for your ongoing support. We are looking forward to the continuation of our mutually beneficial business relationship.

Best regards,

Zel Medak
